

Discuss one or more of these reasons. Use specific examples and details to support your answer.

People work because they need money to live. What are some other reasons?

People work because they need money to live. What are some other reasons?

Essay
TrendingWeblog.com

It is an undeniable fact that most people work to earn money. However, there are certain other factors that may make people work. Some such influences are job satisfaction, enjoyment, interest in meeting other people and the sense of accomplishment.

To begin with, many people enjoy going to an office, or store, or school each day. For them, staying away from homely atmosphere, meeting other people, working in group are all interesting. It is a way of socializing for them. They like to help people solve problems, learn something, or get a service.

Furthermore, there are certain other professionals who enjoy the work they do irrespective of monetary benefits. A lot of people keep the same job because the job gives them a lot of satisfaction. Teachers are a perfect example of this category which does work selflessly and enjoy it.

Some other people enjoy their work because they like the sense of accomplishment. Amateur scientists, athletes and artists epitomize this concept. They do their work for great achievements, and their production is the best reward for them. For these creative geniuses, money is never an influencing factor.

In total, it is evident that money is nice, but it is not the only reason why people get up and go to work each day. Various other factors can make people work.

I agree that most of people work to make their living, so they can afford food, houses, and schools for their children and many more. But there are people, who have plenty of money, say family money, or they just won a lottery, but they continue working, despite the fact that they can afford anything they need. So there must be some other reasons, aside money issue why people work.

In my opinion work is an essential part of life for all human beings. People need some physical and mental exercise for a healthy living. Without work people get bored and in most cases depressed. Working helps people keep themselves busy and active during their life. Besides by working people see themselves as useful and important part of the society. Another reason why people work is day to day communication with their co-workers clients or any people they meet because of their occupation. For example, my mother has achieved her retirement age, so she could just relax and do nothing for a while, because with her pension she receives enough money to live. But she continues to work as dressmaker for the clothing store. She says she needs this job, because it makes her feel younger, energetic, demanded and in general much better than if she were home all the time. In conclusion I would like to say that money is one, but I think not the only reason why people work. I believe that work has a positive effect on every person and helps people to live happy and meaningful life.

TOEFL listening discussions: A conversation between a professor and his assistant 42

Answer

Environmental Sciences • Secondary School

Expert-Verified Answer

Some Other Important Reasons That People Have Jobs.

- Money isn't the only reason to have jobs.
- Doing a job can also give them more independence and more supervision over their own life.
- When one works, one is learning new things, learning more aptitudes, and making friends with people they meet through their job.
- People do their job to be the role of and participate in their communities.
- Jobs exist not only for one's advantage, but jobs also let one help others.
- One can help the entire office save time and get stuff done.
- People do jobs to gain experience.
- Many learners work to gain knowledge and not just to earn money.
- Few students commit to part-time jobs while studying.
- Few people like to do public work, such as volunteering.
- Moreover, people do jobs for satisfaction, and happiness, to help others, and to devour their time and not only for money.

That Surprised You

No doubt, surprises and good news always delight a person and bring a huge smile to their face. However, there have been many surprising moments in my life. But one that I will share here is the surprise: my sister gave me on my 16th birthday. My elder sister, who has been living in Canada for a long time now, couldn't travel to India for almost five years without any intimation. She arrived on my 16th birthday, and I was on cloud nine to see her on the doorsteps as she entered; she gave me a warm hug and wished me happy birthday and handed over a parcel to me. As I opened the parcel, I couldn't believe my eye because it was the latest iPhone handset I had dreamed of for a long time. I was super happy on this day because nothing could have been a better gift for me on this special day. We all enjoyed the party to the fullest, allowing me to share my happiness with my sister and family. We've taken many photos, and whenever I see them, I recall the memories and the surprise that my sister gave me.

History was my favourite subject in my academic life. I have learned so many things from history books and started realising how important it is for us to know our past to build the future. I learned a lot from my history teachers and they were excellent tutors who always motivates us. I was so fascinated about my experience of reading and learning the history that it was my major in my university.

Learning about the past is something that gives us essential knowledge about our country, heritage, the world we live in and about the human race as a whole. It also warns us about past catastrophic events and motivates us to build a better world. I took history seriously for the first time when I was in grade 7 and I found it intriguing. I learned about the ancient world, how the social and economic conditions were then and how the world has been shaped by the different events throughout the time. I liked it more than any other subject in my school. I could actually relate things I learned from my history textbooks, and this was not the case for a few other subjects that we were taught at that time. So I really liked history as a subject. I developed an uncanny attraction towards it and tried to read as many history books as possible back then.

After that, I became so interested in this subject that I started reading books on History by different writers. There is a famous saying that "To shape the future you must know the past", and history teaches us that. I had been lucky to have some great teachers who have a tremendous way of explaining the topics of history. To me, other subjects like literature and math were also interesting but I felt a different passion for history as a subject.

After I finished school, I took history as my major and that has greatly influenced me the way I look at the world and to the past and the future. Reading and learning history was like travelling through time and generations and that excited me so much. To be honest it still does. I fell in love with this subject and it became my favourite subject soon.

Its magnificent beauty....

Explanation:

Last time when I saw nature and its magnificent beauty was when I visited my hometown with my mother. Thanks to my vacations that I get chance to visit my hometown every year. It is very strange when I think about my experience of being at a place where I barely get any of my everyday facilities but still enjoy, rather I should say feel peace of mind. Today at this time of gadgets and skyscrapers you might be thinking that I am crazy to find peace of mind at a place where I don't even get proper mobile signals. Strange fact for me as well but yes its true. We do a number of things right from meditation to what not to gain mental peace but what we lack is our MOTHER NATURE. We are all so lost in our day to day life chaos that we don't get time for ourselves. Its high time that we should start spending some regular time around plants and trees . Medical research suggests that if a person visits any park or green area for even twice a week he could see drastic changes in his health. It increases oxygen content of our body and thus we feel more relaxed and calm when we sit around greeneries. Also another aspect of this is that we get some quality time for ourselves to think and analyze about our actions and their respective reactions. Thus I feel now its high time that we start spending time with our MOTHER EARTH.

steffis • Virtuoso

...

GIVE ANSWER

Scanned by Scanner Go

I believe education is the most important tool you can receive, that can bring you most success in society today. Education lessens the challenges you will face in life. The more knowledge you gain the more opportunities will open up to allow individuals to achieve better possibilities in career and personal growth. Education has played an important role in the career world of the twenty-first century. A person with a higher education will be easily qualified compared to a person without an extended education; as one will be prepared to do various tasks that careers demand as well as meet job standards.

I also believe education is important because it helps us develop a unique perspective of looking at life. Education has played a major role for all individuals in the society. It has allowed the community to succeed both socially and economically by enabling it to develop common culture and values. Education is the reason our world is the way it is today, doctors have been close to finding cures for cancer because of a higher education; our technology has been enriched compared to the 19th century all because of education.

If the importance of education is not recognized, then someday education will become less relevant. Education serves to unite and strengthen our country. Without education people would not be able to distinguish right from wrong. If this should happen, then our society will find itself at a large disadvantage compared to other countries. "Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world" once said by a wise man name Nelson Mandela, and that is why I strongly agree why education is important.

Answer

English • Secondary School

Education plays a significant role to design your future as a successful person in life and as a useful citizen in the society. I believe no one can neglect the importance of it. Education reduces the challenges of life that one might face.

When you have more knowledge and degree, there will be more opportunities for you to accelerate your professional and personal growth in life. Education is becoming very important for career building in this era. A person who acquires higher education will have more skills, capable of doing multiple tasks as well as meet the job requirement. Such a person is also aware how to balance personal and professional life.

Importance

Education is important because it gives a different perspective on life and establishes a personal opinion after analyzing the situation. It helps society to develop socially and economically. Also, latest technologies are developed and used in different areas like health, economy, military and different areas like health, economy, military and other business.

Educated doctors find the solutions to the dangerous diseases, cause, and prevention of these diseases.

learn

It is the responsibility of each person to recognize the importance of education on the individual basis.

Education is very important to bring prosperity, unity and build a stronger nation. People will not make difference between right and wrong until they are educated.

It is clearly shown no person can open the doors of opportunities and success in life without being educated. Having a scholar background not only give a knowledge of a particular subject but also it teaches us the core values and ways of living.

Self-respect and basic rights of human beings are benefits of educated people.

All these lessons and values are important if we want to make Earth a peaceful place and it is done with the help of education.

We can say that education is a success factor for civilization, socialization, professional and personal growth.

It teaches us the manners of living. In the past, people had success without education and used alternative ways for it, but their success might be temporary. The key to success usually depends on educated people. So if a person wants a divine success than education is compulsory.

When you are able to get an education it will help you to better analyze yourself and your skills, so you can excel. Education also gives a sense of management and patience. Is the ultimate way to improve communication skills, enhance your perspective, and refine your personal skills as well as your technical skills.

Answer

English • Secondary School

When you are able to get an education it will help you to better analyze yourself and your skills, so you can excel. Education also gives a sense of management and patience. Is the ultimate way to improve communication skills, enhance your perspective, and refine your personal skills as well as your technical skills.

learn-success

The most important thing that you need to remember about education is that it helps the individuals to gain personal control on their lives.

Always refine your education at any time and age because it opens the doors for various opportunities. When you start understanding its importance, you will experience a great change in your life. After understanding yourself and your skills, you may reach your vision and dreams. In this way, you feel that you are doing the very enjoyable thing to get success in your life.

gallery is the place that tell the stories of the past. well, they are always interesting and captivating. Museums are the symbols of the cultural values and traditions of any society. Undoubtedly, museums tell the untold secrets of the place and take visitors back to historical times. Mostly, tourists visit museums whenever they are travelling to new places. In my opinion, there are certain reasons to visit museums which will be illustrated in the following essay.

Firstly, folk want to know about the past culture and traditions of the society, and which place would be answering all those questions regarding the culture other than museums? They have all the secrets regarding the specific place and people can see what type of people lived there in the area the food they ate and all the things about them. Moreover, museums are advanced and provide a graet deal of knowledge to visitors by pictures, artifacts and 3D movies, it looks like people actually travelling back in time and these details about ancient people are so true and finely defined that visitors cannot avoid their temptation to visit museums and enhance their knowledge.

Secondly, tourists go to museums because they can meet there with local public and get to know about that area in more detail. For example, my friend went to Spain and visited the main museum in the city: luckily, she got a chance to meet so many amazing people and they not only told her about the history of Spain, but also helped her in her whole visit by providing their guidance and now, she has great friends in Spain. So that is how tourists meet locals in the museums and make themselves connected with diversity of people. Additionally, the souvenirs from museums are also intriguing and remind people of the visit.

In conclusion, tourists always want to know about the origin and values of the place they are visiting and this can be done by visiting museums and talking to local people there. Museums assist in knowing about the place in great details. Thus, helping people to broaden their horizon.

People visit museums for several reasons. Museum is a place where people can get geographical information about a place, categories of the people who live in that place and of course the history of that place. Different people visit museums for different reasons. I would like to depict some of them.

First of all, every city has some histories of its own. Usually those are elaborately written in books, photos and videos as well in the city museum. Museums have some rare collections of their own. Same thing is true for the heritage of that city. So a museum is a very good source of information about the history and heritage of that place.

Secondly, museums contain models, specimens, pictures and movies of the people who live in that place. It tells about the living style of the people of that place, the famous citizens of that place. So if somebody visits the museum of any place he will be able to collect data about the people of that place without meeting with any other people of that place.

Thirdly, visiting a museum is much convenient than to travel everywhere in a new place. Traveling in a new place can be problematic not only in terms of language diversity of that place but also in terms of security. If somebody, interested to collect data of that place only, travels a place, museum is the best comprehensive source for him.

Finally, the information collected from a museum is both authentic and detailed. If somebody collects that data from various sources, he may not always get the truth in it. Moreover, the information from a museum is always organized. So it easily attracts the people.

The need of museums is inevitable in today's cultured society. I believe that there is no city in this world where a museum is absent. Museums are great attractions for tourists and there is no doubt that at least for a single time people want to visit any new museum. Maybe for the reason they prefer most.

THE IMPORTANCE OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE EDUCATION IN SCHOOL

 12 April 2019  The Manthan School  0 Comment

Last Updated On September 23rd, 2022 At 06:24 Am

Learning foreign languages in school has always been productive as it not just imparts linguistic skills but enables the students to explore and learn about related cultures and lifestyles. Learning a Foreign language is all about learning how to truly communicate and connect with others. This incredibly important communication skill can only be cultivated by interacting with people which will help the students in their careers and life.

Learning an additional language has many amazing benefits, especially for school students. It not only increases the number of people a student can communicate with but increase job opportunities improving life and career. It also helps the student to be more confident and gives the opportunity to study abroad and opens the mind to new cultures.

The Manthan School is the best primary school in Noida Extension which believes that learning another language is an accomplishment of which a student can and should be proud! Not only will it help in enhancing the student intellectually and emotionally, but it will make the student a better communicator, empowering him to reach his goals, and boosting his self-esteem.

Benefits Of Learning Foreign Language

There are many benefits of learning a foreign language for a student such as:

- Learning foreign languages not only helps the student to achieve linguistic competence but also helps to explore and learn about related cultures and lifestyles.
- Learning a foreign language helps the student gain global knowledge.
- Learning a different language can help to boost confidence among students,
- It will help the student to get a job in the global market in the future.
- Multi-language learning can help in improving problem-solving skills, memory, concentration, and mental flexibility.
- Learning a foreign language can make the student stand out in the crowd which will help in his/her career.

Parents have a significant influence on their children's upbringing. Children learn the majority of what they know from their parents because they spend the most time with them. A person's behaviour, including how he speaks, talks, and walks, is determined by his upbringing and environment. Parents teach many life lessons to their children when they are young. Children's first mentor and role model are their parents. Parents play a larger role in their development as they get older.

They should teach them what is right and wrong. They should teach their children everything, good and bad, about their culture, ethics, moral duty, and so on. If the parents do not teach their children right from wrong at home, the child will do what comes naturally because we are all born with a sinful nature, and the parent is responsible for the child up to a certain age.

Parents should not use abusive language in the home, nor should they engage in activities that are harmful to their children. Children adapt to what they see as they grow older. We cannot expect parents to be present for their children all day, but they should be aware of everything they and their children do.

Children are mirror images of their parents. How a child behaves in society is determined by what his parents teach him or by how they themselves behave. For example, if a child witnesses violence in his home, he will develop a violent personality. On the other hand, if his parents are polite, he will be polite as well. So it all depends on what a child sees during his childhood.

To summarise, the statement "parents should be held responsible for their if their children cause trouble at school" is absolutely correct. Children notice everything their parents do and mimic it. Parents, in my opinion, should devote more time and attention to their children's activities.

If the parents doesn't teach the child right from wrong at home, that child will just do what comes naturally as we're all born with a sinful nature, then the parent is responsible up to certain age of the child.

Parents play a vital role in child's upbringing. Children learn most of the things from their parents as they spend the most time with them. A person's behaviour how he speaks, how he talks, how he walks everything depends upon his finally and environment he has grown up. Children in their early age learn many lessons of life from parents. Parents are children's first mentor and role model. In their developing age parents have a greater role to play. They should teach them what is wrong and right. They should aware their children about everything good or bad , about their culture, ethics, moral duty etc.

Parents should not use abusive language in the house , they should do the activities which affect their children . In their growing age , children adapt what they see . Though we cannot expect parents to present their children all day, they should take care of every action they and their children do.

Children are the reflection of their parents . How a child behaves in society is dependent upon how his parents have taught him or how they themselves behave. For example , if a child sees violence in his house , he will grow up with a violent nature.

On the other hand , if their parents are polite, he will also have polite nature. So all this depend upon what a child sees in his childhood.

To conclude , the statement “parents should be held legally responsible for their children's activities” is very right. Children notice every action their parents do and hence do the same. In my opinion, parents

What change would make your hometown more appealing to people your age? Use specific reasons and examples to support your opinion.

To make my hometown become a lovely destination to visit or a wonderful place to live in for people at my age, a lot of things need to be changed. First of all, I'm 20 years old and the common things that can appeal this age of people are the improvement in transportation such as bus service, internet and wifi services and education.

In my hometown, there are a lot of complex shopping malls that can attract many tourists and shoppers. However, it is quite hard for them to travel to those places since the public transportation is very poor. Although there are many buses in the urban and rural area, but it is pretty hard for people to find out which bus can take them to the destination as the information about the route of the bus is rarely given. Therefore, the public transportation should inform and guide people about the place that buses visit by creating map or call center.

Another change that will benefit my hometown is that government should facilitate free internet connection throughout the city. According to the fact that people at the age of 20 are categorized as tech-savvy people, so they can enjoy playing games, finding information and downloading stuff by using free internet wifi.

Other than that, government should provide better education in order to attract foreign students. For instance, they may offer exchange program to the university or scholar to the foreign students. This will benefit both parties. Foreign students will be able to experience good education that we provide; at the same time it is our chance to share some knowledge and culture with foreign students.

All the three recommendations are not only the way to raise standard of living, but also create a good atmosphere and make the city become a better place to live. After adopting all three recommendations, I strongly believe that it would make my hometown become the number one place that most of the people at my age would like to visit.

Thank you for reviewing my essay.

My hometown has pretty much everything, we have few tech companies, industries, schools, community colleges, restaurants and many more. My hometown is clean and safe place. But, we don't have enough parks for children, young people and elders. So i would prefer to have a big park in my hometown, with big playground, lots of trees and flowers to keep the environment clean, walking path, attracting water falls and landscape, small lake/pond all these makes the town look amazing.

First of all, most of the children are stuck with their play station, computer games, they don't have much physical activity and also our hometown don't have enough park to play. Playing is very essential for child's development, it may be mental or physical. Children are usually attracted by colourful play area, innovative and imaginary surrounding and equipped play areas with climbing, sliding, swinging and sports activities makes them enthusiastic. Parks are full of play, with learning and development opportunities; climbing trees, rolling down hill, playing pond, kite flying, the list is endless.

In addition, senior citizens atmosphere will be healthier to walk, relax, socialize with other people in the park and enjoy with their families and friends. Parks are accessible and affordable, the green-space makes the positive contributes to health. Inhaling clean air and walking regularly reduces stress and unwanted diseases. For instance, obesity, heart disease, mental stress has become common. Moreover, people can do picnic with their family during weekends.

Furthermore, teenagers can hangout with their friends or dating their loved once. Teenagers like to play skateboard, baseball, volleyball and many other sports. So to play all these they need a spacious ground to practice sport activities. And also, the park can fix some amount for special activities that take place, this amount can be used for park maintenance.

In short, Having a big park is beneficent to all age group people in my hometown. Children can play different sports, elders will have clean place and full of greenery atmosphere, young people can hangout with friends and family. A innovative, greenery and aesthetic environment of pond, landscape appeals the beauty of the hometown.

Votes

Average: 7.8 (39 votes)

Answer

English • Secondary School

Question

Choose a plant or animal that you think is interesting. Describe some of the threats or challenges it faces and explain how it overcomes those threats or challenges.

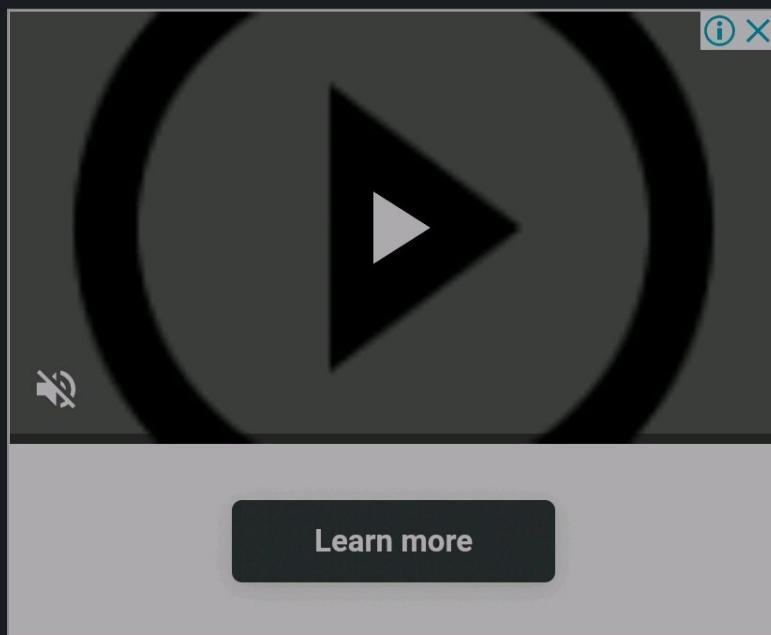

anubabwani • Helping Hand

...

Advertisement

Expert-Verified Answer

Answer:

The Elephant is an animal I find very interesting. One of the challenges it faces is that due to their large-sized body they tend to move slower compared to other animals in the wild but they do overcome this problem by staying in family herds for better survival chances.

Answer:

The Elephant is an animal I find very interesting. One of the challenges it faces is that due to their large-sized body they tend to move slower compared to other animals in the wild but they do overcome this problem by staying in family herds for better survival chances.

Explanation:

- Elephants are one of the largest land animals or mammals and are known as majestic creatures. These are just some of the reasons to find this creature so interesting.
- Elephants do have disadvantages or challenges like any other being on this planet. For them, it's their large-sized body.
- Being large-sized comes at a cost of getting slower speed in running, and for surviving in the wild having a slower pace can be a big disadvantage.
- To overcome this challenge they usually stay in groups or herds which is mostly the family of the elephant that is the mother father and their children. This way they can protect each other if confronted with any dangerous situation.

Let us consider one of the very few endangered species of animals, the Panda.

- Pandas are an extremely popular animal in the world today. Since their discovery in the late 1800s, they have become a symbol of happiness and good luck. The world census of panda populations is up to 1,864 individuals, and there are about 40 in captivity.
- It is the only living representative of the bear family. The Panda is a large animal, weighing between 300 to 700 pounds. The Panda is found in the temperate zones of the northern hemisphere. The panda, due to its big head, short legs, and long tail, reminds us of the Chinese zodiac. This makes it the perfect animal to represent the year of the tiger.

Threats and challenges faced by a Panda are as follows:

- The giant panda is one of the most endangered species on Earth.
- It is listed as “vulnerable” on the IUCN Red List, meaning it is facing a high risk of extinction in the wild.
- The exact causes of the giant panda’s decline are not fully understood, but habitat loss is a major threat.
- The giant panda is a herbivore and relies on native bamboo for food and shelter, which makes it particularly vulnerable to habitat loss.
- The panda is a threatened species. The major threats are habitat loss, poaching.

Answer

English • Secondary School

- The giant panda is a herbivore and relies on native bamboo for food and shelter, which makes it particularly vulnerable to habitat loss.
- The panda is a threatened species. The major threats are habitat loss, poaching and the illegal trade of body parts for traditional medicine. The conservation effort is underfunded, and there is too little awareness of the pandas and their plight.
- As with any other species, the panda is under threat from habitat loss and degradation, climate change, and human impacts.

Steps to overcome the threats and challenges are listed below:

- Sustainable forest management is based on the principles of sustainable development and the protection of the environment.
- The main objectives of sustainable forest management are to ensure a long-term forest stock that is able to meet the demands of a growing human population, to protect and enhance the environment and to reduce the negative impacts of land use on the ecosystem and the society.

anjalin • Virtuoso

...

Click to let others know, how helpful is it

0

4

13

Scanned by Scanner Go

Answer

English • Secondary School

Describe the geography of the country where you currently live. How does the geography of the country affect its people and its culture?

srikanthsaint • Helping Hand

...

Advertisement

A dark rectangular box representing a video player. It features a large white play triangle in the center. To the left of the play button is a small speaker icon with a slash through it, indicating muted sound. In the top right corner of the video area, there is a small blue rounded rectangle containing a white 'i' symbol and a white 'X' symbol. Below the video area is a light gray rectangular button with the text 'Learn more' in white.

Expert-Verified Answer

In this question, we are asked to describe the geography of the country where we live.

- Geography is very important to understanding culture.
- We all know what geography is. To be formal, it is a study of the variable character of the earth's surface. It involves the study of climate, earth surface, environment, soil, and so on.

Answer

English • Secondary School

- Geography is very important to understanding culture.
- We all know what geography is. To be formal, it is a study of the variable character of the earth's surface. It involves the study of climate, earth surface, environment, soil, and so on.
- Similarly, culture is something that has been inherited and adopted from the previous generations. There are various mosaics of culture like religion, food habits, clothing, races, ethnicity, and so on.
- Now coming to the question, geography does influence the culture of a region. For instance, people dwelling in coastal regions generally consume a lot of rice and fish while those in the hinterland consume pulses and cereals/millets. This is because of easy availability and suitability to the regional geographical conditions.
- The effects of geography on culture can be understood from the following correlation as an example.
- Hills and mountains - In general, they act as a physical barrier between the two regions. Until very recently, they restricted the movements of the people. The restricted movement compelled them to follow the different cultures and it also prohibited the intermixing of two different cultures. For example, the Vindhyan ranges act as the north-south cultural divide in India. We can see that north of Vindhyan, there is a dominance of the Hindi language, whereas, towards the south, there is a wide range of

Answer

English • Secondary School

- Hills and mountains - In general, they act as a physical barrier between the two regions. Until very recently, they restricted the movements of the people. The restricted movement compelled them to follow the different cultures and it also prohibited the intermixing of two different cultures. For example, the Vindhyan ranges act as the north-south cultural divide in India. We can see that north of Vindhyan, there is a dominance of the Hindi language, whereas, towards the south, there is a wide range of linguistic diversity like Marathi, Kannada, Malayalam, and so on.
- Climatic conditions - In general, climate determines the food habits, clothing, immunity against certain kinds of diseases, etc. For example, people living in tropical regions mostly wear half sleeves clothes [lungi and mostly white shirts in India] unlike the person living in the sub-polar region who wears fully sleeves clothes. Similarly, in the subtropical regions [mostly northern states in India], crop like wheat is cultivated while in the tropical region [southern states], the crops like rice and coconut are cultivated on large scale.

A university plans to develop a new research center in your country. Some people want a center for business research. Other people want a center for research in agriculture (farming). Which of these two kinds of research centers do you recommend for your country? Use specific reasons in your recommendation.

Most of the universities in the world seek to develop some research in some countries. These researches can be aimed for several fields such as business or agriculture. If a university plans to develop a new research in my country and I have to choose between establishing a centre for business research or a centre for agriculture research, I would opt for the second one.

First of all , my country has a lot of lands which are useful for the agriculture. Most of these lands are left without any treatment. The centre for research in agriculture can help my co-citizens to better exploit these lands. This centre can also help people there to solve their issues related to their lands. Especially, if they have no knowledge or education in this field.

Secondly, the centre for research in agriculture helps the economy of my country to improve. The agriculture field has only thirty percent as a market part. The centre of research can raise the market part of this field by developing the agriculture products. For example , the dates are the most important agriculture product in my country. The centre of research for agriculture can make some research in how to get a good quality of this product, how to treat the Palme and maybe how to treat the land of the palms.

Another reason that makes the centre of research for the agriculture more important is that it can help to increase the production of the agriculture products and reduce the cost of production.

Secondly, the centre for research in agriculture helps the economy of my country to improve. The agriculture field has only thirty percent as a market part. The centre of research can raise the market part of this field by developing the agriculture products. For example , the dates are the most important agriculture product in my country. The centre of research for agriculture can make some research in how to get a good quality of this product, how to treat the Palme and maybe how to treat the land of the palms.

Another reason that makes the centre of research for the agriculture more important than the centre of business research is that the first one can create a lot of jobs. Obviously, showing people how to exploit a land and get good agriculture products will push people to think about working in the field of agriculture rather than working in business or other field to make money.

Some people think that a centre of business research is more important because we have to be in parallel with the advanced countries which have focused in business field. For me being a developed country does not mean that we have to focus only in business, but we have to focus on what really bring us to the level of self satisfaction, and the agriculture for our country is the field that can realize that.

My country need to focus more on the agriculture by establishing centers for research in this field, which will have some very positive consequences on agriculture people work, on the economy and on the employment.

Upon the above question, different people have different opinions based on their cultures and nationalities. From my point of view, establishing a new research center for agriculture is more important than building a center for business research. Although each option has its unique advantages, the benefits of a center for research in agriculture outweigh the benefits of a business center. In the following paragraphs, I will try to explain my position more clearly.

First and foremost, food production is the most significant issue not only in my country but also in all over the world. No one can deny the importance of food for our survival because it plays an important role in our lives after air and water. Besides, my country is located between deserts and drought is a major problem in my country. So that building a new center for research in agriculture where farmers learn how to manage water resources is necessary.

In the second place, a new research center for agriculture will provide farmers with the most advanced tools and techniques for farming so they can produce more food for people. Furthermore, in this center, researchers can manipulate the genome of strategic plants such as wheat, rice and corn to make new plants with better characteristics. These new plants are more resistant to drought, diseases, pesticides and so forth. According to the latest researches which were published in well-known journals, genetically modified foods have more essential nutrients for people and children who consume them regularly are less prone to various ailments.

Last but not least, I think improvements in agriculture has positive effects on our economy. Currently, most foods are imported from other countries and advances in agriculture will save a huge amount of money.

Taking all the aforementioned arguments into account, it can be concluded that developing a new research center for agriculture is more important than establishing a business center based on the reasons which I outlined above.

Votes

Average: 7.9 (64 votes)

 Expert-Verified Answer

Answer:

There have been a lot of people who have made an impact in my life including my parents but one person who has influenced my values, beliefs, and force to live in work as a person is my teacher. He is not only my teacher but also like my father because I do well in my job and daily life on his instruction. I have learned valuable lessons from my teacher, in particular, he is hard working and always learns something. When I graduated, I did not know what to do. I went to my teacher training course. At that time I did not understand the lecture, so the teacher noticed me. He patiently explained the lessons and taught them not only during the training but also outside. As a result, after I successfully completed the exam with good marks, my teacher gave me a chance for my first job. But Unfortunately I can not do job well and had poor relationships with people. I quit my job because I was depressed. At that time the teacher helped me to find a new job and I was living under the guidance of my teacher. Today I am the manager of a large company, and my teacher passed away early.

hkhatoon913 • Ambitious

...

Click to let others know, how helpful is it

0

1

4.4

Answer

English • Secondary School

Information is anything that you take in through your five senses. To understand which information is most important we need to look at several factors including context, situation, and state of mind.

- You decide which information is most important to you based on the situation you are in. If you are in danger or in a situation is that hazardous the information you give focus on is the one that can help you get out or get through those situations.
- You prioritize information on what you need at the moment. For eg., if you are thirsty and someone offers you you take that information and put it to you. Similarly, if you are studying for a test, you will prioritize that information over all others as that is the most important to you at the moment.
- You also use the information and adjust focus based on the context of the situation. You may never need complex mathematics in your daily functioning but for the test, you give it more important because it is important to you.
- Filtering of information happens in various situations and even without you knowing. For example, a lot of the things that happen throughout the day will be forgotten and only the main information will be kept throughout. You may see someone pass by and not pay attention to it and completely forget it because it is not important.

and state of mind.

- You decide which information is most important to you based on the situation you are in. If you are in danger or in a situation is that hazardous the information you give focus on is the one that can help you get out or get through those situations.
- You prioritize information on what you need at the moment. For eg., if you are thirsty and someone offers you you take that information and put it to you. Similarly, if you are studying for a test, you will prioritize that information over all others as that is the most important to you at the moment.
- You also use the information and adjust focus based on the context of the situation. You may never need complex mathematics in your daily functioning but for the test, you give it more important because it is important to you.
- Filtering of information happens in various situations and even without you knowing. For example, a lot of the things that happen throughout the day will be forgotten and only the main information will be kept throughout. You may see someone pass by and not pay attention to it and completely forget it because it is not important.
- Information is constantly being fed to us and the priority and focus of this information vary greatly from person to person, situation to situation, and more.

The contributions of artists to society are very essential. Art forms people's are so special and they have spiritual sense; People learn history, the traditions of their country through the art. We also watch movies that are entertaining and at the same time extend our range of interests and knowledge about societies. Another important aspect of this is that art is an ancient means of communication. In old times people depicted the herds of mammoths on the walls of their caves. They performed different rituals around the fireplace asking their gods for health, good harvest and weather. Our language is a result of people's need to communicate.

On the other side, the contribution of scientists is could not be condoned. All humankind is indebted to scientists because of their work and achievements. Scientists make our life easier. We have cars and aeroplanes to move fast from one place to another. We have microwaves and a bunch of preprocessed food to make cooking much easier. We have different devices that simplify all we do. Finally, scientists are making great achievements in medicine that make our life longer and happier. Nowadays people have a great opportunity to do many things faster by use of computers.

To sum up, I am of the opinion that artists nourish our souls simultaneously that scientists and technology feed our minds. So, we can not eliminate or underestimate one of them

PLAY NOW

Google Play

Model Answer 2:

The world needs both the artists and scientists. We equally remember the contribution of Leonardo the Vinci and Albert Einstein. It might seem a controversial question whether the contributions of artists are more or less than the contributions of scientists to the world. But to me, there is no scope for debate, hence I value both equally and my belief both types are valuable, priceless and irreplaceable. The art can never be the competitor or alternative of science and the reverse is true as well.

The contributions of artists to the society are very essential. Art can form person's spiritual sense, their views, morality, spirit and personalities. People learn history, the traditions of their country through the art. We also watch movies that entertain and at the same time extend our range of interests. Another important aspect of this is that art is an ancient means of communication. In old times people depicted the herds of mammoths on the walls of their caves. They performed different rituals around the fireplace asking their gods for health, good harvest and weather. Our language is a result of people's need to communicate.

PLAY NOW

Google Play

erests. Another important aspect of this is that art is an ancient means of communication. In old times people depicted the herds of mammoths on the walls of their caves. They performed different rituals around the fireplace asking their gods for health, good harvest and weather. Our language is a result of people's need to communicate.

On the contrary, the contribution of scientists is could not be exaggerated. All humankind is indebted to the scientists because of their work and achievements. Scientists make our life easier. We have cars and aeroplanes to move fast from one place to another. We have microwaves and a bunch of preprocessed food to make the cooking much easier. We have different devices that simplify all we do. Finally, scientists are making great achievements in medicine that make our life longer and happier. Nowadays people have a great opportunity to do many things faster by use of computers.

To conclude, I believe that artists nourish our souls when scientists and technology feed our minds. So, we can not eliminate or underestimate one of them.

Expert-Verified Answer

Essay On: The man you admire the most.

The man I admire the most is Mahatma Gandhi.

Mahatma Gandhi was one of the greatest patriotic in India and was born in Porbandar, Gujrat On 2 October 1869. His full name was Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi. Everyone used to call him by another name that is Bapu.

He was one of the most important freedom fighters who liberated India from the British. His efforts in getting the freedom of India has gained appreciation from all over the world and a lot of people still consider him as an Idol.

He guided many people and he always stood against wrong no matter in which country he is present. He always tried to create awareness about the importance of education among the people. He encouraged people about becoming independent and working on their own and asked them also to always stand against wrong.

Brainly User

...

Click to let others know, how helpful is it

13

3.8

The person whom I admired first time is my mother. But, if we talk about the famous person, I can say that, he is Mahatma Gandhi. He was from India. He is known as the “Father of nation” in India as he played a very important role in gaining the freedom of India.

Mahatma Gandhi gave the Indian People not only freedom but also the new thoughts on non-violence and sustainable living. There are some qualities about him like trust, non-violence, legacy, etc. These qualities are the ones that inspired non-violence, legacy, etc. These qualities are the ones that inspired me. He said that “If my faith burns bright as I hope it will even if I start alone, I shall be alive in grave and what is more speaking from it”.

Get Access

Mahatma Gandhi was born on October 2, 1869 in small town named Porbander.

Gandhi was a lawyer...show more content...

From this, I gain “a basis for my life-long philosophies”. I believe in non-violence, therefore I think that